

Dr. Lisa
National Expert on Troubled Teens
Psychologist, Speaker, Author

Sample Questions for Media Interviews

New Book: WHEN TO WORRY: How to Tell if Your Teen Needs Help—and What to Do About It By Lisa Boesky, Ph.D.

www.whentoworry.com & [www.dr lisab.com](http://www.dr lisab.com)

- 1) What makes you an expert in “Troubled” Teens?
- 2) How many of today’s teens are truly troubled? Aren’t ALL teenagers somewhat crazy?
- 3) The title of your book is WHEN TO WORRY: How to Tell if Your Teen Needs Help—and What to Do About It. Well Dr. Lisa, tell us, when should parents worry?
- 4) Does Depression look different in teenagers? What are some “warning signs” parents could look for?
- 5) What drugs are most popular with teens today?
--What are some warning signs parents can look for to see if their teen is using them?
- 6) I’ve heard/read about teens who “cut” or “burn” themselves to feel better. Why would a young person do that?
- 7) What should a parent do if their teen continually breaks rules?
--What if their teen is breaking the law?
- 8) Given the celebrity culture that teens live in, we see so many young girls wanting to be super thin. When is a teen TOO concerned about dieting or their weight?
- 9) We hear a lot of talk about ADHD—aren’t people just labeling and medicating “typical teen” behavior?
- 10) What exactly is ADHD--how would a parent know if their teen has it?
- 11) What about teens who don’t want to go to school? At what point should they worry?
- 12) What about slipping grades? Is that normal during the teenage years or something parents should worry about?
- 13) What about Bipolar Disorder? Don’t ALL teens have mood swings? What exactly is Bipolar Disorder and what are some warning signs that a teen might have it?

- 14) Teen Suicide is the ultimate tragedy--Which teens are at highest risk for taking their own lives?
- 15) Aren't today's teens OVER-diagnosed? It seem like so many teens have one label or another—ADD, ADHD, Bipolar, Autism....
- 16) Are today's teens OVER-medicated? It seems like doctors are giving a pill for everything. Is that really the answer?
- 17) Which professionals should parents consult if they are concerned about their teen?
- 18) Are there any professional treatments parents should be aware of that are NOT effective or that could make their teenager worse?
- 19) What can parents do in the family home to help a teen who is struggling?
- 20) If you could leave one message with our listeners that would change the way they interact with their teens today, what would it be?
- 21) Where can people learn more about you, your book and your work related to teens who are struggling?

Too many “sick teens in need of treatment” are viewed as “bad teens in need of punishment”

-Dr. Lisa

For More Information:

[www.dr lisab.com](http://www.dr lisab.com)

www.whentoworry.com

To interview Dr. Lisa for print, radio or television, please contact:

Kathlene Carney, Carney & Associates Publicity

www.carneypr.com Kathlene@carneypr.com (p) 707-765-1234 (f) 707-765-0186

For breaking news stories please call Dr. Lisa at (619) 993-2570